Footnotes:

1. Closed Cases:

- (a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 1/31/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
- (b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
- (c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be required to pay

Date FSA Issued to School	Reference Control Number	School Name	Original Liability Amount immediately in the settlement.
			2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
			(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Treasury Off-Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.
			(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Not Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining a record of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicants to receive Title IV funding for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
			3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department cannot collect debts from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for dismissal, discharge, termination or Office of General Counsel (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
			4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take up to several years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
			5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Receivables Service (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
			6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
			7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.

Footnotes:
1. Closed Cases:
(a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 2/28/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
(b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
(c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be required to immediately in the settlement.
2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Treasury Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.
(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Not Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining a right of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicants to receive Title IV aid for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department cannot collect from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for dismissal, discharge, termination or Office of General Counsel (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take up to two years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Receivables (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.

Footnotes:
1. Closed Cases:
(a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 3/31/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
(b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
(c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be repaid immediately in the settlement.
2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Offset Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.
(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining record of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicant receive Title IV funding for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department can collect debts from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for discharge, termination, or Office of General Counsel (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take several years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Rec Service (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.

Footnotes:
1. Closed Cases:
(a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 4/30/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
(b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
(c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be required to pay immediately in the settlement.
2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Treasury Offset Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.
(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Not Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining a record of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicants to receive Title IV funding for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department cannot collect debts from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for dismissal, discharge, termination, or Office of General Counsel (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take up to several years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Receivables Service (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.

Footnotes:
1. Closed Cases:
(a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 6/30/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
(b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
(c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be required to pay immediately in the settlement.
2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Treasury Offset Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.
(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Not Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining a record of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicants to receive Title IV funding for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department cannot collect debts from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for dismissal, discharge, termination, or Office of General Council (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take up to several years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Receivables Service (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.

Footnotes:
1. Closed Cases:
(a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 7/31/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
(b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
(c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be required to pay immediately in the settlement.
2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Treasury Offset Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.
(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Not Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining a record of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicants to receive Title IV funding for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department cannot collect debts from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for dismissal, discharge, termination, or Office of General Council (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take up to several years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Receivables Service (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.

Footnotes:
1. Closed Cases:
(a) Receivables that were listed in the Department's previous report as of 8/31/22 and are no longer on the list above may be due to debts closed and paid in full.
(b) Receivables that are established and closed within the same monthly period are not included in these reports of "open" cases.
(c) Debts closed may be due to Appeal resolution and/or Department review of the liability amount which may be reduced for which the institution would be required to pay immediately in the settlement.
2. Treasury Cross-Servicing Referrals of Delinquent Debt: In compliance with the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, delinquent debts are referred to the U.S. Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to the Cross-Servicing program for further collection action.
(a) Multiple collections tools or methods are available through Treasury's services to Federal Agencies and are utilized to the fullest extent of the law such as the Treasury Offset Program of Federal and State funding, Judgement Fund actions, Private Collection Agencies, skip tracing, Administrative Wage Garnishment, U.S. Department of Justice litigation, and repayment agreements, to name a few.

(b) Applicable to the Federal Claims Collection Standards (FCCS), the Department terminates collection activity for liabilities returned from Treasury as Currently Not Collectible (CNC) after exhausting all appropriate means to collect. However, termination of collection activity does not preclude the Department from retaining a record of the account to pursue collection in the event the school's status changes or a new collection tool becomes available, screening of future applicants to receive Title IV funding for prior indebtedness, or offsetting against future income or assets not available at the time of termination.
3. Bankruptcy: Many debts that do not show collection activity for several time periods may be attributable to schools in bankruptcy status. The Department cannot collect debts from institutions when a bankruptcy automatic stay is in effect. The Department remains proactive in monitoring all bankruptcy court cases for dismissal, discharge, termination, or Office of General Counsel (OGC) filings of proof of claims on behalf of the Department.
4. Appeals Filed by Schools: Schools may appeal liabilities which places a hold action on all collection activities until the appeal resolution is reached which may take up to several years to reach a final agency decision. Cases highlighted in yellow in this report have open appeals.
5. Repayment Agreements: Many debts also have on-going Settlement Agreements following an appeal resolution or Installment Agreements at the Centralized Receivables Service (CRS) which reduces their debt balances as payments are received by the Department each month, quarter, or year based on the terms of the agreement.
6. Department of Justice (DOJ) Referrals: Debts may also be in litigation review at the U.S. Department of Justice either direct from the Department or through Treasury.
7. There is no statute of limitation for institutional debts in the offset program.
